Dear John:

Thanks for your letter of December 15th enclosing a copy of the information about [redacted]. His case was beyond our power to interfere in the absence of very special qualifications for our type of work.

You are right about [redacted]. Her good fortune certainly points to the advisability of waiting patiently for the right man to come along. Incidentally, I think Bob should be congratulated on his good taste.

I am stuck here for Christmas and New Year's. The boys will be with Pat, so I don't give a damn anyway. I might as well work those days and let someone else enjoy the holidays.

With best personal regards,

Very sincerely,

WILLIAM H. JACKSON

P.S. I am not convinced that I haven't done pretty well by waiting myself.
